Description

The course offers an introduction to the European Union, its main institutions and aspects of the EU decision-making process; and an overview of the European economic integration process and impact on business, including the consequences of the latest developments (recovery plan). Strasbourg is a unique place to learn about the EU as it is where the first steps of the European integration took place and it is today the official location of the European Parliament.

The pedagogical objectives of this course are that students become better acquainted with the European Union's rationale and functioning, particularly in relation to the Single market, the budget and the Economic and Monetary Union.

READING (basics)

- GENERAL (this category deals with suggestions of books providing an understanding the European Integration process: if you haven't taken any course on the EU before you must, right at the beginning of the course, read one of the introductory chapters of these books or those available in the libraries in Strasbourg - e.g. BNU, PEGE or at your home university; the more recent the book the better as the EU has followed a dynamic integration process in recent years; if you have any doubt about the relevance of your book please double-check with the course coordinator)
